After a couple of weeks with lots of activity in Burnet, it looks like Marble Falls is the place to be this weekend. The biggest event is probably the music and wine festival, FiestaFest on Lake Marble Falls, but the Hill Country Wine Expo, an impressive (and free) event at the Boys and Girls Club, could be a very close second. Then, depending on the weather, there could be a bunch of other activities, Main Street Market Day, the Sporting Clay shoot hosted by the Marble Falls Daybreak Rotary Club, Sweet Berry Farm’s “Harvest of Fall Fun,” The Bonnie Center’s Fun Day at Candlelight Ranch (or Sunday afternoon) and more. There’s also the “Don’t Miss Me” show at Hill Country Community Theatre. Countryside Richard’s book launch at First Baptist Church and Chris Knight’s music at the Upstage (also on Sunday). Of course, there are events planned in other towns, too, just not quite so many.

Before I quit talking about Marble Falls, I want to mention the “Battle of the Bands” at this year’s FiestaFest. Quite a few bands submitted videos for the online video process, which has been going on for a couple of months. Of them, four finalists have been selected to perform by the lake on Saturday afternoon. One of those will win $1,000 cash (from sponsor Rebecca Creek Distilleries) and eight hours free recording time (from sponsor Upton Sound Studio). The winner will be announced around 5:30 p.m. at Lakeside Park, just before headline Joe Kelly takes the stage for his performance.

Another circle of thoughts includes Marble Falls items. Novelist author, scholar and historian Melvin C. Johnson, whose most recent book, Polymer on the Borderlands: Lomax’s Writings, Morrison Villages in Andrews County, Texas, 1945-1958, was the Smith-Pettit Best Book Historical Award

Hi!dland Lakes Weekly
The family of William Duncan is going through a very difficult time since he and one of his daughters were badly injured in a motorcycle accident a few weeks ago. Both will be in wheelchairs for weeks to come, and the family is struggling with the bills. Friends are organizing a bake sale at the former Car Quest building (across Real Street from Kingsland Health & Fitness) in Kingsland, beginning at 9 a.m. on Saturday, October 1. Cash donations will also be accepted, every penny raised will go to help the Duncan family.

A few of the hard-working volunteers at Kingsland Community Church consented to have their picture taken Wednesday morning as they paused from their preparations for the church’s huge annual Rummage Sale. The event raises thousands of dollars for local charities each year.

Builder Dave Gresham was tired of being retired. “I’ve caught all the fish I care to clean,” he said. At the same time, Realtor Linda Moreau (Re/Max Highland Lakes) had a VA-approved buyer who couldn’t find a suitably-priced home in Kingsland. The buyer chose the lot (on Elm Drive) and now “DG Builders” is back in business, building a new custom home for an American veteran.
Texas Country Reporter Rob Phillips (at right) posed for this picture on Wednesday with County Judge James Oakley and restaurateur Trace Catlin while visiting Catlin’s Trailblazer Grille in Burnet to film a TV segment.

More than 260 people crowded into the Lakeside Pavilion in Marble Falls to support the Hill Country Community Theatre at a very successful “Taste of the Hill Country” event on Tuesday evening. About a dozen area restaurants supplied samples of their finest delicacies at the “Epicurean” affair.

A steady stream of hungry supporters were fed at the Buchanan VFD’s BBQ fundraiser at the Red Barn community center in Buchanan Dam on Saturday. Fire truck rides and a bounce house were provided to entertain the younger guests.

Six United Methodist Motorcycle Association riders from Highland Lakes United Methodist Church (MaryEllis, Michael, Stoddard, Marilyn, and John Long, Gilbert, and Elizabeth McPheeters) rode to Hot Springs, Ark., on Saturday morning to participate in the annual Ride for Wreaths for Vets. All proceeds will benefit the Fort Hood Wreaths for Vets Project. Wreaths are placed on more than 5,000 gravesites to honor our veterans, starting the Saturday after Thanksgiving.

Saving the Bridges

The bridge on CR 272, built across the Russell (Middle) Fork of the San Gabriel River in 1911.

The last two surviving iron-truss bridges from a county-wide building program in the early 1900s, these century-old structures in Joppa are the subject of a preservation campaign by the Burnet County Historical Commission, which hopes to restore and preserve them and have historical markers placed on each.

The bridge on CR 200, built across the North Fork in 1907.

A crowd of Joppa residents and area history buffs (including several members of the Burnet County Historical Commission) enjoyed a delicious meal at the Joppa Community Center last Saturday evening. The Joppa Fish Fry, which included a book-signing, Fleishman’s, a baked-goods auction, and a car show by Lake Area Rods and Classics, raised funds for the restoration and preservation of Joppa’s two historic iron-truss bridges. The bridges, along with an old church and the community center (built on the site of the old Joppa School) are the most obvious traces of a thriving rural community which existed in northeast Burnet County for several decades. Both of the iron bridges have been by-passed by newer roads, and neither carries traffic today.

Burnet Art Festival

Downtown Burnet was filled with activity last weekend, mostly based on the 3rd Annual Art Festival and the Plein Air painting competition. There was also a farmers market, a car show, live music, chalk art and a 5K Run centered on the square, while a “Quick Draw” contest was held at Hamilton Creek Park and a Bluegrass Festival was held at Haley Nelson Park on Saturday.

The unique and colorful vehicles of the Lake Area Rods & Classics car club added another dimension to the art festival on Saturday. Many members took their cars to Joppa for the Fish Fry on Saturday evening.
