Almost 40 aspiring artists each created their own "Bohemian Cow Skull" masterpieces on Monday evening in an interesting new Llano tradition, directed by Brownwood artist Jeremy Serna, called "Painting with Friends." Each participant follows the artist's directions in their own individual style, so the similar-looking paintings have a unique quality. It's a relaxed and entertaining way to learn more about painting, and the crowd has grown with each monthly class (held at the John L. Kuykendall Event Center, just west of downtown Llano). See more photos on page 7.
Burnet’s own Andrew Ham, pictured at right during a “Heroes on the Water” event at Revellie Peak Ranch last year, will be one of the featured performers, along with Steel Belt and The Sam Williams Band, at the first concert in Burnet’s Summer Concert Series (at Haley Nelson Park—this Saturday). The event, entitled “Texas Talent Showcase,” will begin at 7:30 p.m. Doors open at 6:30. See doubleagletx.com for tickets or more information.

Scatterthought

The good news is that the proverbial monkey is off my back. The magazine is finished and has been sent to the printer (see photo above). The bad news is that it took so much of my attention lately that I don’t have time to write much for this paper. I did make it to quite a few events over the weekend, so I’ve got enough pictures to fill the space. I’ll try to get back to my history articles now that I’ve taken care of that huge deadline.

This weekend coming up is Memorial Day weekend. That always seems like the first days of summer (although the calendar begs to differ), and there will probably be a lot of boats on the water (and lots of back-yard barbecues). I hope that our fallen heroes will not be forgotten; it’s really their day.

One reason that it seems like the beginning of summer (other than the warm weather and the day job work) is that most schools have closed for summer vacation. Faith Academy had its graduation a couple of weeks ago; Burnett and Llano will be holding their high school graduations this Friday evening, and Marble Falls on Saturday.

While that means there won’t be a whole lot of competing events, there are still plenty of things to do this weekend. Two events that I left out of my abbreviated “Upcoming Events” article are dances at Cadillacs Dance Hall (on FM 1855, north of Marble Falls), and at Panthers (on Hwy 29 in Buchanan Dam; see ad on page 11). Leona and Ron Williams will be special guests at Cadillac Dance Hall on Saturday night, and saxophonist Elliott Fikes tells me he has recovered from his shoulder surgery, and will be back on stage there with Eddie Shell and the Not Guilty.

John Hallowell

John Arthur Martinez is probably the area’s biggest musical celebrity, but (when he’s not touring Europe or making special appearances far away from here) he’s amazingly accessible. You can usually find him at Trailblazer Grille in Burnett on Tuesday evenings and at On the Rocks in Cottonwood Shores on Wednesdays, and he participates in a great number of community events around Marble Falls. Next Tuesday will be a special evening at Trailblazer, because the Hill Country Tribune is planning to do a live feed of his performance. It might be wise to make reservations, because it’s always a busy night there (between 6 and 8), but there’s no cover charge, and the music is first-class.

Commissioner Mike Sandoval (Llano County, Precinct 3) sent out a post on Facebook a couple of days ago to announce that there will be a Boys & Girls Club in Kingsland by sometime this summer. A grant has provided seed money; Kingsland First Baptist has offered their facilities, and Bill Drake (from the Marble Falls club) his expertise. So it seems like a sure thing; that’s good news for Kingsland!

I didn’t get any particulars into this week’s paper, but I keep hearing good things about the activities of the Lake Buchanan Conservation Corporation (cleanups, stocking fish, giving scholarships, etc.). I’ll try to get some details in next week’s paper.

I wanted to mention here that Alfredo’s Mexican Restaurant in Kingsland will be closed through June 4 (it will re-open on Monday, June 5). That’s why Alfredo’s regular ad is not on page 2 this week.

Don’t forget the Turkey Trot Golf Tournament at The Legends this Saturday, or the Open House at the Masonic Lodge in Kingsland. Have a great week!
Reference librarian Claudia Wolfe dressed in period costume to give a talk on libraries in the 1890s, including several books from that bygone era, at a Friends of the Kingsland Library meeting on Tuesday.

Chelsea Morrow and Teresa Gray presented a check for $1,536 to Volunteer Coordinator Kim Kankel, of the Highland Lakes Family Crisis Center, at the Place Downtown in Kingsland on Wednesday. The donation represents the proceeds of the successful Sip and Shop event, held May 11 at the Kingsland Community Center.

The National Wild Turkey Federation sponsored a trip to the Warren Wildlife Gallery in Austin for a group from the Burnet County 4-H Shooting Sports program. The group is pictured here with some of the more than 300 game animals there from all over the world.
Only the front wall remains, but that wall, with its iconic Highland Lakes map, is secured by a “teepee” frame of concrete and steel, and seems well-prepared for a new life as part of a modern, one-story Prosperity Bank office starting sometime early next year. See page 8 for more pictures of the old bank’s demolition.

Kingsland’s River Rat Revue band provided quality live entertainment at Reverend Jim’s Dam Pub in Buchanan Dam during a BBQ fundraiser last Saturday. They will be the featured performer at an Aqua Boom street dance in Kingsland on Monday, July 3.

The sounds of happy children surrounded Packsaddle Elementary School last Friday during the school’s annual Field Day. Different groups enjoyed activities at several locations around the school.

It was just over a month ago when workers from Maynard Construction Services began the demolition of the Highland Lakes Shopping Center in Kingsland.

All the one-story structures had been removed within a couple of days, but demolition of the old two-story bank was complicated by the need to preserve the north wall (and its iconic map).

A "teepee" framework of steel pipes anchored in concrete was completed last week, and workers carefully separated the map wall from the rest of the structure on Monday.

Once the map wall was standing securely on its own, it didn’t take long to knock down the rest of the old bank on Tuesday morning. Some cleanup still remains, but the old bank is gone (see Tuesday afternoon photo on page 5).

Hooray for Hollywood!

Four members of the Hill Country Blenders (Jim McCutchan, Mark Bray, Chuck Myers and Steve Taylor) sang as a barbershop quartet in the Hill Country Community Theatre’s delightful “Hollywood” program last Friday night.
