Sheila Marsh’s intriguing new “TIME2EAT” restaurant, at 204 Main Street in Marble Falls, represents just one of numerous recent additions to Marble Falls’ growing business community. TIME2EAT held a soft opening on Tuesday, and plans to serve breakfast and lunch six days a week (7 a.m. to 3 p.m.) Thursday through Tuesday) in its renovated historic building. Across the street, local businessman Russell Buster is building his new “Del Rio” restaurant in the former Smartie Pantz building at 205 Main, and a flurry of new fast food restaurants are going up along Highway 281. For a few Marble Falls-area “construction” photos, see pages 3 and 15. For many more, see the “Highland Lakes Weekly” page on Facebook.

Burnet High School will hold its
It was a bright, sunny morning on Monday, and I didn’t have any appointments until the afternoon. I decided to take a walk to the lake and take the pictures of the various construction projects that I had noticed in my previous travels. I won’t have room for all of the pictures in the article (although I did put three on page 15), but you can see quite a few of them on my “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page.

I remember 2008 pretty well. I was publishing the Texas Hill Country magazine from the office of the Horseshoe Bay Beacon, and somebody at 7-11 told me that their normal lunchtime rush had vanished; there were no more construction workers anywhere in the area.

I sort of vanished myself for a couple of years, but shortly after I started publishing this paper (in 2011), several big projects seemed to brighten the area’s economic outlook. There was the bridge, the new power plant and the Scott & White clinic (which preceded the hospital on Highway 71). Since then, there has been non-stop building all around Lake Marble Falls in fact, it seems like it’s still picking up steam.

I should interject here that my knowledge of economics (since two college courses 40 years ago) is mostly limited to what I see or read in the papers; nothing I say can be construed as expert analysis. But just seeing the new HEB, the new PEC building, the Wyndham Resort, the Homestead apartments, and the multiple fast food restaurants (and hearing about new businesses by the lake and another new retail building on Avenue H) makes me think that things are going pretty well in Marble Falls.

Personally, I think that’s exciting news for the area, but I’m kind of glad that the growth seems a little slower in the other Highland Lakes towns. There are numerous new homes and several new businesses in Kingsland, Burnet and Llano, but they seem to be keeping their “small town” atmosphere a little better. It all seems pretty good to me.

One of the new businesses in the Kingsland area is Kathy Stockton and Dave Oswald’s “Vineyard B&B.” They are located in a house near Sunrise Beach. They have talked about using their excellent facility as a “pop-up restaurant” for special occasions, and one of those special occasions is now in the works. They will be hosting two gourmet farm-to-table dinners by chefs Tanelle & Jayson, of the LG Large Chefs, scheduled for Friday and Saturday evenings, October 13 and 14. For details (or reservations), you can check out www.thebbs.com or call 844-784-3822.

County Commissioner Mike San-doval (Llano County Pct. 6) is inviting the public to another town hall meeting, this one scheduled for 6 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, September 26, at the Highland Lakes Baptist Church (on Hwy 2900 in Kingsland).

The HEB Pharmacy will offer low-cost Flu Shots (and other shots) at the Kingsland Community Church from 11:30 to 1:30 on Tuesday, October 5.

The Highland Lakes Chapter of the Native Plant Society of Texas will host its annual Native Plant Week Celebration on Saturday, October 7, 2017, at the Falls on the Colorado Museum in Marble Falls from 9 am to 1 pm. The celebration will include a native plant sale, a tour of a private native plant garden, and a featured speaker (Dr. Alice LeDue, Adjunct Professor of Horticulture at Texas State University. She will be speaking on propagation of native plants by seed at the museum at 10:30 am.)

October is Earth Science Month, and the Falls on the Colorado Museum (POCM) will host an afternoon celebration on Saturday, October 14, Kenny Bader (lab manager at Jackson School of Geosciences at the University of Texas) will present a 30-minute program on fossils beginning at 1 pm. Then, at 1:45, three geologists from the Upper Highland Lakes Nature Center (Dr. Frank Caramanica, Charles Beierle, and Billy Hutson) will give a 30-minute presentation on our local geology. All are free to attend, and the museum will be available to identify fossils and rocks that the public has collected and wants identified.

That’s probably enough for now. I hope you’ll all have a great week!

Liano in 1917 - Part 7

By JOHN HALLOWELL

A front-page article in the July 5, 1917, issue of The Liano News reported that all of General Pershing's expeditionary force had survived U-boat attacks on their voyage to France. Related articles told how 329 Liano residents had joined the Liano branch of the American Red Cross during a membership drive, which featured a carnival at the home of M.M. Moss. The paper listed all 329 members and predicted that the number would soon reach 500.

A lighter-hearted article reported that Miles Battery was "now the possessors of a new Chevrolet" from Battery Hardware, and "already he is skilled in the art of driving." It went on to note that "he is not altogether proficient in the matter of stopping, but thanks to the efficiency of his sidewalk as a backstop," he was "getting on." Other stories reported that T.S. Parker had told "a Briscoe car" to "F.R. Reimers of Marble Falls, and App Garrett had delivered two "handsome Chandler automobiles." One was a "seven-passenger touring car" for S.D. Rainier, and the other was a "royster" for C.E. Shults.

Mrs. Louis Deats, who was more than 75 years of age, had recently retired and was able to ride train to visit her daughter in Port Arthur. Heber McLean came home (for a short visit) from the United States Naval Reserve at Annapolis. He reported that several classes were graduating early to help with the war effort in Europe.

Ross Dean, who was "well known in Liano and this county," was shot and killed in San Saba. His murder was reported as the third killing in San Saba County that week.

Mr. Martin Jacobs, whose family had previously lived in part of his business building, was renovating the building and adding new shelves in the former living quarters. His family had "relocated to the residence built by A.C. Chinn in the western part of the city." J.E. Hodgson "came in the first of the week from Hoxton, and has since been engaged in getting his gin in readiness for the coming cotton season. He will remain here until the close of the season."

The July 12 paper reported (perhaps too optimistically) further advances by Russian forces, and turmoil in the German government.

A little closer to home, a re-printed article from the Lometa News reported that "the Humphoton Oil Company, comprised principally of Lometa people" had struck a giant gusher in the Goose Creek Oil Field (in Baytown) and had sold their company to J.C. Stricklin of Liano for $255,000.

The Watkins Auto Sales Company received another call from Ford's Grain E. Watkins left for329 Liano boys (Bruce Harris and Aaron P. Watts) joined the U.S. Navy.

But there was a big "local" story that week, too. The City Highway Commission designated the road through Liano as "one of a great system of State Highways." The article explained that the road from Austin through Lender, Summer Hill, Bertram, Burnet, Liano (via Bluffton and Lone Grove), and Mason to Brady would become an extension of Highway 28, which ran from Houston to Austin. It would meet the road called the "Great Plains Highway, which came into Texas somewhere in the Panhandle and "passes down on to San Angelo and Brady. Not only would this new road bring state funds to Liano, but "no other thing do more for Liano than this road."

The road will be an extension of the city's ridge line and will connect the new railroad line with the old one to Austin.

G. Bagnell and Son announced that the city's new "fine wagon" (built on a Model T Ford frame) was complete and would be ready for delivery to C.E. Shults, the county's chemical tanks and ready for service. A.G. Barrett, formerly of the Gunter Hotel in San Antonio, became the new manager of the Don Carlos Hotel. And Judge Walker left for Detroit, Michigan to "receive medical advice and treatment from the Mayo Brothers."

On July 26, the headlines said "Russians are Falling Back", and "Men for Service in France." Stories explained that the loss of Allied confidence in Russia was prompting General Pershing to call for "1,000 and 1,200 American prisoners of war to the preaching of Dr. George Truett."

City tax rolls showed a total property valuation of $1,444,384 for 1917, an increase of $14,384 from the previous year. H.M. Dunson, of Oxford, cut his foot badly while chopping wood, and had to have two toes amputated. He was expected to recover the use of his foot. An eight-year-old boy (the daughter of Tad Casey) was rushed to Liano hospital for an emergency appendectomy. She was still in serious condition, but she was expected to recover. That was the news in Liano in July, 1917.

Most of this year’s area attendees are students at Faith Academy in Marble Falls. They are pictured here with counselor Nicole Poage and Commander Clarence Draper, of the Kingsland American Legion Post. Two other Boys State attendees were unable to attend last Saturday’s presentation; they are Luke Haydon and Devon Maywald.
"Dinosaur George" Blasing, from San Antonio, is a self-taught paleontologist and animal behaviorist; he is also an author, public speaker, and television host who has assembled an amazing mobile museum of dinosaur relics. He brings his traveling museum to schools and other public places to educate students (and anyone else who's interested) about these amazing pre-historic creatures. Dinosaur George was at the Burnet Community Center last Friday and Saturday; here are a few pictures from the event.
Teams set up booths and took turns walking the course from 2 p.m. to midnight at Johnson Park in Marble Falls during last Saturday’s Hill Country Relay for Life, which raised funds for the American Cancer Society. Music, costumes and an auction (one of the items was an autographed football) made the event quite festive.

Marble Falls Area Construction

This impressive pavilion is nearing completion at the back of the “On the Rocks” restaurant in Cottonwood Shores. When finished, it will allow the popular music venue (with the spectacular view of Lake LBJ) to host many larger events.

Many of the timeshare condos at Wyndham WorldMark are already in use as the project on Hwy 2147 nears completion.

The apartments of Homestead at Mormon Mill, on Max Copeland Drive, are another project that isn’t visible from Highways 281 or 1431. Those main thoroughfares are dotted with construction sites at any given time, as Marble Falls continues its almost-explosive growth.
