Thomas the Tank Engine paid another weekend visit to Burnet, and once again a large crowd gathered around the depot and the community center to welcome him. The three days of the Austin Steam Train Association’s “Day Out With Thomas” event, based on the British television series “Thomas & Friends,” featured all kinds of railroad-related activities. See page 7 for more “Thomas” photos, and the “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page for a whole lot more.

I have all kinds of things that need mentioning, and not much space to mention them. I’ll see what I can do.

The first thing I want to mention is the induction of “Hammer” at Martin Falls High School. There will be a 7 p.m. show on Friday and Saturday, then a 2 p.m. show on Sunday. The students always do a great job. I’m looking forward to seeing it.

The Highland Lakes United Methodist Church, on Hwy 1431 in Buchanan Dam, will host a flu shot clinic and blood drive from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. this Sunday.

There will be a Retirement Party at 5 p.m. this Saturday for Horace and Myrl Ostreich, who have operated Innam’s Kitchen in Llano for 50 years. I’ve known them for the past 30 of those years. I delivered bread there beginning in 1997, Innam’s Kitchen will remain open under the management of their grandson, Grant Morgan, and his wife, Kayla, who will keep up the Ostreichs’ tradition there.

Those are probably the most urgent items, since they are coming up this weekend and I had not mentioned them before. Now I’ll tell you about the picture at the top of this page.

Mike Leamon and Lisa Morgan bought a piece of land off RR 2545 in Kingsland about three years ago. In the middle of it is a small lake (“Granite Lake”), behind a dam built by rancher Shirley Williams back in the 1960s. I’ve been over there a few times to take pictures of the flocks of whistling ducks and the many turtles who frequent the place. Mike emailed me the other day to say that there’s “another explosion” of little frogs there, at least a thousand of them; they make a chirping sound when they jump into the water, and they don’t seem to mind being picked up (and even petted! I don’t know anything about frogs, even though I had to dissect one in biology class 46 years ago, but the picture looked interesting to me). I was in elementary school when the Ostreiches bought Innam’s Kitchen; I was a fresh-man in high school when I dissected the frog.

Mike also tells me that he’s already seeing bluebonnet sprouts around his lake. He says that people can maximize their spring bluebonnet crop by recognizing the sprouts, avoiding trampling on them, watering them during dry spells and then mowing the area on a relatively high setting when the ground-hugging sprouts are 4 to 6 weeks old.

Dr. Robert Linder, the former conductor of the Houston Symphony who “retired” to Marble Falls a few years ago, is all excited about this year’s FiestaAM on Lake Marble Falls, scheduled for October 19-22. He says that they have added a bunch of great new features, and that the musical lineup is really good; he thinks it may be the “biggest musical event” ever in Marble Falls. You can read a little more about it on page 8, or look up fiestamjarga.org to read all about it.

I mentioned last week that Wealthy Ministries is planning a “Worship Club Cook-Off” on Saturday, October 21. If I understand it correctly, Wealthy Ministries is sort of an informal and relaxed mission, for “between Sundays.” There will be a devotional and some Christian music at the cook-off, but there will also be kids activities and other fun. That event will be held from 9 to 3 in the parking lot on the southeast corner of the square in Burnet.

I saw while I was delivering papers that the sign at Buchanan Arts & Crafts is advertising a Game Day on October 24. I forget what else the sign said, but I think they are from 10 to 4. You probably should call before you go, but I thought I’d mention it here.

The Spicewood Arts Society is planning its Fourth annual Fall Arts Round-Up for October 28 and 29, on the leafy grounds of LaCabra Grill, 21103 Highway 71 in Spicewood. Besides the impressive variety of art, there will be music and fun from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday and 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday. For more information, check the website (www.trtroundup.org) or call 512-264-2820.

Steve Rose says his three-wheeled Polaris Slingshot is “as much fun as a Porsche, and a whole lot cheaper.” This photo was taken at Kingsland Coffee last Thursday.

Evelyn Weinheimer, from the Pioneer Museum in Fredericksburg, was the guest speaker at the Highland Lakes Social Club luncheon on October 2. She spoke about German immigration in the Texas Hill Country. Mrs. Weinheimer is a direct descendant from some of the immigrants; her personal stories made the program even more interesting.

A cheerful crowd gathered on Main Street in front of the Marble Falls police station on Tuesday evening for National Night Out with local First Responders. In addition to hot dogs, chips, drinks, bounce houses, face painting, music, sidewalk sales, vendors and the unique Crimestoppers jail cell, kids were able to inspect all kinds of First Responder vehicles and even test their aim with a fire hose.

Rain drove most of the crowd under the shelter of the old quarry sheds (now covered tennis courts) at Granite Shoals’ National Night Out event at Quarry Park on Tuesday evening, but First Responders were ready with a bounce house and other fun activities for the children who attended. Burnet’s First Responders held their own National Night Out event on Monday evening at Wallace Riddell Park.

Ira Kennedy’s beautiful “Moonfire” painting is one of the items in the Silent Auction at the Llano Fine Arts Guild’s “ARToberfest” event, scheduled for 6 p.m. on Saturday, October 7, at the Dabbis Hotel on the north bank of the Llano River. Ira’s art has appeared in numerous publications; he also held two solo exhibitions in New York City and participated in the group exhibition, “The Art of Money,” with Andy Warhol in New York’s Chelsea Gallery. He donated this painting to help raise funds for the Guild.
