Mission ladies surround Sky Masterson (Kyle Hanshaw), who is pretending to be a repentant sinner in order to win a bet in a scene from the Marble Falls High School's presentation of “Guys and Dolls” last weekend. More photos from the well-acted and funny production can be seen on page 10 (and you can see lots more pictures on the “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page).

My recently-retired brother and sister-in-law have been taking my father on road trips to visit family and old friends since my mother passed away last August. They were here for two days last week. This picture was taken last fall in Dover, New Jersey (where I lived for quite a while). My father re-built the engine for this 1936 Chevy fire truck in 1986, and another brother restored it to museum quality. It was the centerpiece of local parades for more than a decade, but started having engine troubles about 20 years ago. When my father was there last fall, he diagnosed the problem correctly and supervised the repairs (at age 85) it’s back in good running condition for future parades.

Scatterthought

It was an honest mistake (not “fake news”). I copied some bad information, and put the wrong dates in a photo caption about the big Quilt Festival in Burnet next weekend. The right dates are February 9 and 10. By the way, I am an expert on fake news, and during my misspent youth I used to deliberately make up enzy news items and invent bogus organizations (even placed one fake “personals” ad). I thought it was all a very obvious joke, but some people took it seriously, I had to quit when the Burnet Bulletin in 2000, I went “mainstream,” and have not pursued what might have been a promising career. That all happened before Joe Stewart made “fake news” famous, and I have occasionally wondered if he ever heard of me!

These days, especially in my history articles, I try hard to be exactly accurate: small discrepancies in my writing are accidents, often caused by my declining memory. I wrote last week about Kingsland’s “Little white Christian Church” and mentioned that I wouldn’t say a firm date for its move from Hwy 1431 to Chamberlain Street. Well, as I progressed in putting the pages together last weekend, I found that I had already ascertainment the real date, and had written about it four years ago. The church was moved about 50 feet to the east before the groundbreaking in January of 1965 (to make room for the new Kingsland Community Church sanctuary), but I wasn’t moved to the senior center location until November of 1966. It troubled me when I realized I had guessed wrong on that two weeks ago, and I’m very relieved to see that I already had the right information just waiting to be put in the book.

Speaking of that book, I regret to say that I just barely missed my self-imposed deadline of January 31. I had been expecting it to take 180 or 184 pages, and I have now completed 173. Unfortunately, there are a few that I want to re-arrange, and think now that the total page count is going to be closer to 200. I should be able to finish that much this Saturday, but I’m hearing rumors that three of my four kids may descend on my house this Saturday. That is always good news, and definitely will change my priorities IF it happens. That would push back the book’s schedule for another week, but it is almost done. (The folks at Prosperity Bank and La Tequila Jalisco, which were both supposed to open in January, can probably feel my pain)

There are four “business” items I want to mention this week. One is that a meeting will be held next Wednesday evening (7 p.m.) at the VFW Post 9074 in Burnet to explore the possibility of creating a new VFW Auxiliary to support the Post. The Auxiliary supports the VFW and its members; it is comprised of relatives of eligible VFW members who are at least sixteen years old, and citizens of the United States. They will work side by side with the veterans on projects and events, and they will also promote the VFW Post through their own community service projects. If you would like to be a charter member, bring your veteran’s DD 214 and the membership fee of $30. Call Kat Carter at 317-654-9910 or email kcar13@yahoo.com for more details.

The Hill Country Memorial, based in Fredericksburg, has been recently increasing its presence in Llano County; you can see a picture of the new Llano clinic on page 6. Now, the HCM Hospice is planning a series of free bereavement support meetings in February and March for anyone who has suffered any kind of death or loss. The Living With Loss – Kingsland support group will meet weekly at 5 p.m. on Tuesdays, from February 6 through March 6, at 525 Kingsland Hills Care Center (3727 RR 1431). The Kingsland group is open to anyone in the Highland Lakes

Justin Davis and Stanley Miller accepted the Chamber’s “Business of the Year” award from Executive Director Briley Mitchell and Board Chairman Carlton Hanson (at right) for Fuel Coffee House.

Briley Mitchell and Carlton Hanson presented the “New Business of the Year” award to Jeriann Powell for her Glizzy J’s shop on the east side of the square.

MC Les Hartman and Briley Mitchell presented the Ag Producer of the Year award to John Schuessler.

Briley Mitchell and Superintendent Mac Edwards presented awards for “Educator of the Year” to Margaret Bomkamp (above left, Llano Junior High School) and Carol Cunningham (Llano Elementary). Jim Freeman, winner of Llano High School’s top honors, was unable to attend the awards ceremony.

Jennifer Blair received the Educator of the Year Award for Packsaddle Elementary School, in Kingsland. And Briley Mitchell helped Dr. Alice Smith present the Llano Christian Academy’s award to Sidonie Thornton (above, right).

MC Les Hartman advertised the raffle items, which included a rifle and an enlarged photograph of the Llano bridge by Dust Devil Diver Photography (Briley Mitchell), while guests enjoyed a delicious meal before the award presentation.

Like Winter Texans, birds come and go with the seasons
• Who’s here now? What birds nest specifically in the hill country? Who lives here year round?
• Birding in the wild — there’s an app for that!
• Binocs — what can you tell about a bird just by looking at it?
• Come learn some cool fun facts about our fine feathered friends!

Do you know how vultures keep cool in the heat? How and why do birds sing? Are all birds good birds? Why are some birds so colorful and some so drab?
