History and High Tech in Kingsland!

The new Prosperity Bank in Kingsland is open for business! While the beautiful new building boasts all the modern conveniences and the latest in banking technology, it is filled with reminders of the important role in Kingsland’s history played by the building it replaces. In addition to the front wall with its iconic Highland Lakes map, the new building is furnished with part of the old stairwell mural and several historic items. A partition with a collage of historic Kingsland photos is planned for the near future. For more photos, see page 7 or search for “Highland Lakes Weekly” on Facebook.

Scatterthought

It was another awesome week; if I survive too many more of these, I’m going to have to retire!

My favorite event was the Special Needs Prom at Hill Country Fellowship in Burnet. I had attended last year’s event, and was very much impressed with it. This year I heard that it’s part of the Tim Tebow Foundation’s “Night to Shine” initiative, and that 450 churches around the world, with 17,500 volunteers participating, honored more than 90,000 special needs individuals by crowning them “king” or “queen” for the night and treating them like royalty. There were limousines, a red carpet, cheering crowds, individual companions and a host of good-hearted volunteers, all dedicated to making last Friday night a memorable event.

One of the honorees was 20-year-old Daniel Pugh, a young man with Down’s Syndrome who I knew years ago in Burnet. His mother (Patty) tells me that he needs a volunteer “job,” and wonders if there is someone out there who could put him to work at some simple, routine job for a few hours a week (even just a couple of hours). She is willing to volunteer with him, if that would help. You can contact Patty at patricia1959@gmail.com if you’d like to help.

I’m not going to try to list all the events, but I do want to let you all know that my book is now at the printer’s, and I’m told that copies will be shipped this way by February 22. It didn’t go as smoothly as I had hoped, and I’m still worried that there will be some glitch, but I’m thrilled to have it so close to reality. I’m planning some book-signings, but I’ll wait until I get the books to announce a schedule (if the books look really bad, I’ll just bury them all and move to Alaska!) I have some “business” items to mention. This Friday, the Lakeshore Library will hold its annual Back Yard Bird Count, except this year it’s called a “Celebration of Backyard Birds.” It will be from 8:30 a.m. to noon; the library will be open at 8, and there will be other bird-related activities there. Call 325-379-1174 for details.

Cynthia Akinloye-Hall, who recently re-opened her “Lil Sugar Shack” just off the square in Burnet, is hosting “Remembering John Akinloye Days” from February 17 to 20. There will be live music on the patio on Saturday, along with specials, raffles, etc., and all funds received will go to the John Akinloye Memorial Scholarship Fund. John Akinloye was a star athlete at Burnet High School and a well-respected young man who died much too soon.

The Kingsland Chamber’s next Breakfast Club will be held at 7:45 a.m. next Wednesday at Valentine Lakeside resort, on Eulaline Moore Drive. Guests will have a chance to introduce themselves and meet other area business owners; breakfast tacos and coffee will be provided!

Jeff Cook, the founder and executive director of the Faith Angler Network (FAN) from Cedar Park, will be guest speaker at the Lake Buchanan Conservation Corp meeting on Tuesday, February 20. FAN develops fishing-based youth outreach programs for middle and high school students; the group will be hosting its second annual Largemouth Bass tournament on Lake Buchanan on February 24. More than 50 FAN teams are expected to participate in this professionally-run fish-based tournament. Come to the Hill Country Hall on Hwy 29 in Buchanan Dam at 7 p.m. next Tuesday, and learn about the tremendous growth occurring in youth and high school fishing. For more information, call Ken McGary, at 512-755-2526.

At right: Guests at the Winter Texan Dinner were greeted by Kingsland’s Aqua Boom royalty, Miss Aqua Boom Amber Dyess and Teen Miss Jalynn Clark.

Nearly 160 Winter Texans attended the dinner. Minnesota led all states with 23 in attendance; Wisconsin, Michigan and Iowa also were well-represented at the popular event. The final Winter Texan Dinner for 2018 will be held on March 13.

Guests and staff from Valentine’s Lakeside, which also was this month’s sponsor for the Winter Texan Dinner, posed for a group picture before dinner was served on Tuesday evening.
Workers were still busy repairing the mosaic map on the historic front wall and installing sprinklers for the lawn, but the new Prosperity Bank opened on Monday morning to mark a new era in Kingsland. The building is located at the corner of Hwys 1431 and 2900, formerly the site of the Highland Lakes Shopping Center.

Manager Melody Yannel sits at an old desk in her brand-new office at Prosperity Bank in Kingsland. The desk was originally purchased for the conference room of the “new” Highland Lakes National Bank, built on this site in 1965.

A unique “end table” in the Prosperity Bank lobby consists of the original safe from the Highland Lakes National Bank when it opened in the Ainsworth Real Estate building (now Landmasters) in 1963.

Sometimes, the things you cannot see are the scariest of all
- Tropical diseases used to be limited to, well, the tropics. Not so any more.
- Dengue, Yellow Fever, Chikungunya, Zika, Ebola... what else is out there? How is it getting to the U.S.?
- How are they transmitted and what can you do to protect your family? What can the government do to protect its citizens?
- Is this going to be the new normal?

Dr. Jungkind has been heavily involved with national and international efforts in collaborative efforts to improve healthcare with respect to infectious disease.

Cheerful volunteers waited on both sides of the red carpet and in the lobby to welcome guests of honor to Hill Country Fellowship for last Friday’s “Night to Shine” special needs prom. Guests arrived in limousines (see photo below) and were applauded as they walked the red carpet into the building.

Once inside the lobby, prom guests posed for pictures, then were escorted down the hall to the gymnasium.

Once they reached the gym, guests were greeted and served by more volunteers. They enjoyed good company, music, dancing and a delicious meal as part of the “Night to Shine” program.
A good crowd attended the “Valentine Shoes” fundraiser at Genesis Lutheran Church in Buchanan Dam last Saturday night. The event raised more than $4,000 for the Orphan Grain Train charity, to provide shoes for needy children.

In a madcap spoof of Alfred Hitchcock’s thriller at the Hill Country Community Theatre, Cody Petty plays a patriotic Englishman who is falsely accused of murder (after a beautiful spy is killed at his home) in “The 39 Steps.” He goes on a frantic trip to Scotland, eluding the police in a series of hilarious misadventures with the belief that he can save England from a devious plot. The many characters he meets along the way are imaginatively played by Katherine Clay, Doug Hart and Graham Avery, who change costumes and personalities at an amazing pace. The play, produced by Laura Gisi, will continue the next three weekends (see ad on page 8).

A little rain (and the threat of more) reduced attendance at Inks Lake State Park’s special “Galentine’s Day” hike to just these two intrepid visitors and Park Ranger Lindsay Pannell, who headed out along the new Devil’s Backbone Trail on Saturday afternoon.

Maxine Heath introduced her great-great-grandfather in a historical program on Tuesday at Lakeshore Library, called “Abraham Lincoln’s Teacher.” Adam Shoemaker was a teacher and preacher in Indiana in the early 1800s, and young Abraham Lincoln was one of his students. A log cabin that Shoemaker built several years later has been restored, and is on display in a Pioneer Village in Indiana.
