This unfrightening group of costumed characters were in Burnet on Saturday evening for Weakday Ministries’ “Boo Bash,” one of several family-friendly “Halloween” events held (or planned) around the Highland Lakes area. Flooding disrupted the normal Halloween season (and several events were re-scheduled for early November), but there were plenty of costumes to be seen last weekend. You can see a few more pictures on the inside pages of this paper, and a whole lot more on the “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page.

The destruction of the October 16 flood has certainly not been made (to borrow a phrase from the ServPro company) “Like it never even happened,” but many aspects of life in the Highland Lakes area are getting back to near-normal. In between the clean-up, the repairs and the longer drive times, there are a bunch of good events going on around the lakes, and (since good news is the primary focus of this paper) that’s mostly what I will be reporting.

Some of that good news is flood-related. Chris and Heather Stephenson teamed up with Joy Rucker to bring donated meals by boat from several Kingsland restaurants to residents and volunteers on the north side of the lake. Windchime Assisted Living welcomed evacuees on the night of the flood, giving them warm beds and good meals until better arrangements had been made. And a group called Ministrier Disaster Response, formed after the devastating tornado at Joplin, MO, in 2011, has a team working here in Kingsland to help locals dig out from the mess left by the flood.

I mentioned last week that many heroes were still “unsung.” I wasn’t aware of MDR until after last week’s paper was already printed. I just saw their vehicles at the LBI Hotel when I started my deliveries. I do hear more about what’s going on than many people do who have to work for a living, but there are other things that I’m not aware of. I don’t know exactly what that big crane was doing at the park last week. I don’t know exactly what FDOT is doing at the Slab. I don’t know the name of the new coffee shop across from HEB, and beyond that I don’t even know what I don’t know.

I do know that the Llano Community Theatre will present a dinner theatre production of “The Shaky Tale of Dr. Jekyll,” at 6 p.m. this Saturday, November 3, at the John L. Kuykendall Event Center. Spectators are encouraged to throw popcorn, boo and hiss the bad guys, cheer the good guys, and bid on Silent Auction items. Call 325-247-5354 for tickets or details.

I’ve also heard that this month’s Highland Lakes Social Club meeting (November 5) will be held in the Rotunda of the Highland Lakes United Methodist Church. Call Gretel Morgan at 325-423-0168 for reservations.

And July 27 will be a Veterans Day Free Fishing Event, honoring all military veterans and their families, at the Inks Dam Fish Hatchery from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. on Saturday (November 10). Bring your own tackle; bait will be provided; limit 300 anglers. Call (512) 793-2474 for more details.

The Texas Well Owner Network is hosting a water well screening from 8:30 to 10 a.m. on Tuesday, November 6, at the First Baptist Church in Kingsland, Texas. This is late notice, but early-reading residents who believe their wells may be contaminated can pick up the sample testing bags with instructions at the Kingsland Baptist Church between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Nov. 1 and 2. A meeting explaining screening results and instructions on how to properly disinfect your well will be at 6 p.m. on Thursday, November 8. For more information contact the Llano County Texas AgriLife Extension Office at 325-247-5159.

The LCRA informs me that it is providing $100,000 each to Burnet and Llano counties to help the counties recover from recent historic flooding along the Colorado and Llano rivers. County judges will decide how best to use the funds for cleanup in their local areas to ensure public safety.
Work has already begun on a stronger, higher and wider replacement bridge for RR 2300 in Kingsland. TxDOT Engineer Terry McCoy announced last week that the new bridge, which will include 12-foot travel lanes, six-foot shoulders and a six-foot sidewalk, should be completed “by next April.”

The former “Six-Pack-It” complex on RR 1431 just east of Kingsland is now open for business as Hill Country Shops, and held its first “Market Days” event last weekend. Market Days is scheduled from now on for the second weekend of each month.

Chris and Heather Stephenson enlisted Joy Rucker’s help to provide meals by boat to residents and volunteers cut off from Kingsland by the collapse of the 2900 bridge in the October 16 flood (Comanche Rancherias, Lakewood Forest 1 and BridgePoint). Restaurateurs including Subway, La Tequila Jalisco, Sonic, Gatti’s Pizza, Tamale King, Wake Point, Grand Central Cafe and Judy Runnels donated hundreds of meals; Joy Rucker picked them up and brought them to the bridge, where the Stephensons loaded them up and delivered them by boat. Thanks to all involved for their kindness and support!
The Kingsland Chamber held a very successful “Fall Social” at Log Country Cove’s “Cedar Skies” hall last Thursday evening. George Gurganus (at top right corner of photo) provided excellent live entertainment.

Chamber President Louann Raley addressed the Annual Meeting of the Kingsland Chamber, held on Tuesday evening at Windchime Assisted Living.

Cheerful volunteers from First Texas Bank in Lampasas offered free lunches last Saturday at the new WakePoint convenience store in Kingsland, part of the flood relief effort there.

The "six-man" football team warmed up on the new field before their Homecoming Game with Waco Vanguard. A dedication was held at half-time.

Hey Diddle Diddle Catering, Kona ice (above), live music, a bounce house and a costume contest were some of the attractions at Weakday Ministries' "Boo Bash," held last Saturday evening in the parking lot of First State Bank of Burnet's motor bank.

Skillful make-up artists did their grisly work in the old fair barn at the Llano County Community Center as a cheerful team of actors was transformed into a mob of terrifying monsters for the annual Haunted House in Llano.

When the team was almost ready for "lights out," they gathered for a group picture; judging by the screams of their guests, they did their jobs very well!

A group of volunteers fanned out across Badu Park last Sunday to get ready for the annual Starry Starry Nights lighting display. The riverside park in Llano was almost completely submerged by the raging river on October 16, and buildings were damaged and filled with mud. A lot of progress was made, and organizers expect the park to be ready on November 23.
