Many excellent Christmas events are scheduled in the Highland Lakes area (most notably in Burnet and Llano) for the next three weekends (see page 2). Scatterthought

By JOHN HALLOWELL

I guess the official Thanksgiving season is over now (it doesn’t take as much time as some of the others!), but I am still feeling thankful. I went to two community Thanksgiving meals (Burnet and Llano) and even ate some turkey and green beans in Llano, but my real Thanksgiving and Christmas weekend will be (if all goes as planned) on the third weekend in December, when two of my sisters and at least three of my four kids will be here for a mini-reunion. That’s just one of many things that is sending my Thanksgiving into extra innings this year.

As far as the newspaper is concerned, Christmas season is already well underway, and the next two weekends will be hectic. All the news is good, but there are probably more great events than what I can handle. All I can promise is that I’ll have more than enough colorful photos to fill this little newspaper!

Here in Kingsland, there will be “Kingsland Christmas” this Saturday, a “Jingle Mingle” next Thursday and the Chamber’s Christmas Gala next Saturday. Also, there are several charity events going on: The Knights of Columbus are selling tamales (just $7 per dozen), you can place your order at 325-388-5549, and deliveries will begin on December 7. The Friends of the Kingsland Library have their “Angel Tree” up (at the library), and there were 19 names remaining to be adopted as of Monday. The Kingsland VFD is holding a Toy Drive, and you can drop off new, unwrapped toys at several locations around town (I know that Sure Cuts is one of those locations). And the Sheriff’s Department is working on another great “Brown Santa” event, as well. I know that’s not all that’s going on, but it might give you an idea of where to start!

Volunteers are invited to help with clean-up and repairs at the American Legion Hall in Llano. The popular community events venue took on two feet of water during last month’s flood, and suffered considerable damage. The Work Day is scheduled for this Saturday, December 1, from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Bring gloves and tools; lunch will be provided.

An addition to the area’s Christmas calendar this year is the new Highland Lakes Classical Chorus which, along with a chamber orchestra, will perform selected movements from the Christmas section of Handel’s Messiah at 2 p.m. on Sunday, December 9, at the First United Methodist Church in Burnet. The group includes accomplished musicians and singers from all around. Admission is free (but donations are welcomed).

The Hill Country Community Theatre, which is presenting the Christmas farce “Sorry! Wrong Chimney!” for the next three weekends, is already planning its next show. Auditions will be held for Ken Ludwig’s comedic “Baskerville: A Sherlock Holmes Mystery” at 7 p.m. on Monday and Tuesday, December 3 & 4. The roles are: Sherlock Holmes, Doctor Watson, Actor One, Actor Two, and Actress One. Actors One & Two and Actress One will play multiple roles and use multiple dialects.

The Kingsland Genealogical Society of the Highland Lakes (KGS) will hold its annual meeting at 11:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Dec. 4, at Francesco’s Italian Restaurant in Marble Falls. In addition to a Christmas celebration and installation of officers, members will officially welcome their new logo and new name—Highland Lakes Genealogy Society.

Last month’s flood affected many regular participants in Kingsland’s annual “After-Turkey” Turkey Trot behind Kingsland Health & Fitness last Friday morning, but those who were able to be there enjoyed better-than-normal weather. In the photo above, the eventual winners of the 5K Run took an early lead; Charley White finished first and Macallie Miller finished just ahead of Michael McDavid to take second place.

Bicycle winners (drawn from the list of “Kids Mile” participants) were Caden White and Abby Lescoe. Bicycles were sponsored by Jr’s Tex-Mex and D & T Services.
Philip Smith brought his “Saint Paul Speaks” program to Packsaddle Fellowship in Kingsland last Sunday morning, with a presentation of Paul’s letter from a Roman prison to the church at Philippi.

There were 19 children’s names left to be “adopted” from the Friends of the Kingsland Library’s Angel Tree when this photo was taken on Monday.

A meeting was held at Kingsland’s First Baptist Church on Tuesday evening to provide information for those whose homes and property had been damaged in the October 16 flood. In the photo above, Tax Appraiser Scott Dudley and Volunteer Coordinator Tammy Manning answer questions from the crowd; county commissioners and other officials also spoke at the well-attended gathering.

Above and below: It was a beautiful morning for Kingsland’s “Small Business Saturday” event in the Prosperity Bank parking lot at the corner of Hwys 1431 & 2900, and rows of colorful booths (plus the mobile O2 KOOL Kreamery) attracted civic-minded local shoppers throughout the day.

At the same time last Saturday, volunteers from the Kingsland VFD and the Hill Country Auxiliary braved the traffic on the two highways to collect donations for the “Santa’s Helpers” program. Pictured above: Stormie Barnett, Cindy Miller, Amanda Barnett, Trey Barnett (as the Grinch) and Robert Barnett. The VFD is also holding a toy drive, and donations can be made at several business locations in Kingsland.
These cheerful volunteers posed for a photo at the Vanderveer Street Church of Christ in Burnet just before the doors opened for a free Community Thanksgiving Dinner last Thursday. They served 250 guests.

Another crowd gathered for a free Community Thanksgiving Dinner at the Lutie Watkins Memorial United Methodist Church in Llano.

These five volunteers, pictured waiting at a table for the serving line to shorten, were some of the approximately 15 “delivery crew” members in Llano, which took free Thanksgiving meals to 93 “shut-ins” around Llano before volunteers began serving the meal at the church. From left: Greg Klein, Marcus Hammons, Valerie Smasal, Jenny Kelso and Kevin Kelso.
It's Christmas time in Llano, and the downtown is filled with beautiful lights since the official lighting of the courthouse square at dusk last Wednesday evening.

At left, public works manager Eugene Long gives some last-minute instructions to Jacob Powell, a Packsaddle Elementary School student who earned the honor of turning on the lights on the courthouse square by winning a coloring contest. At right, Tanner Stone flipped the switch to turn the lights on at Badu Park’s “Starry Starry Nights” last Friday night.

The Mercy and Grace band (Stacey Nobles, Jacob Nobles and Dr. Brooks Blake) provided Christmas music at the opening of Llano’s “Starry Starry Nights” lights display last Friday night.

Perhaps not so big (or so well known) as the Walkway of Lights in Marble Falls, Llano’s Starry Starry Nights lighting display is a Christmas Wonderland in its own right. The up-close details are a delight, and the view from the bridge (where the effect is doubled by the reflection in the water of the Llano River) is spectacular!
