Renowned tea party hostess Virginia Walker, of Sandstone Street Bed & Breakfast in Llano, held one of her fabulous events on the B&B lawn last Sunday afternoon. Guests sampled exotic teas at the beautifully furnished tables, and entertainment was provided by members of the Llano Community Theatre group. The tea party followed a full schedule of events in Llano on Saturday; you can see a few pictures on pages 8 and 9, or a large “Christmas time in Llano” album on the Highland Lakes Weekly Facebook page.
Please welcome the Highland Lakes Genealogy Society to our community!

HLGS was formed in 1989 as Kingsland Genealogical Society.

We are all about building our knowledge of genealogy and the historical facts surrounding our ancestors. Are you aware that the Internet is not always correct? HLGS can help you learn the facts. You will also learn to work with the different software programs. If DNA testing interests you, we offer discussions on that subject as well.

Your membership will benefit the genealogy collection at the Kingsland Library. For meeting information, contact our 2019 President, Michele Hogan, at 210-216-2044.

By JOHN HALLOWELL

You know I hate to put bad news in the paper, but I thought I'd better let you know that Christmas at Fort Croghan has been canceled. There's quite a bit of rain predicted for Friday, which would make parking impossible on Saturday in the fields next door (even if they could get everything set up inside the fort). I've been announcing the event (one of my favorites), so I thought I'd better "un-announce" it right away.

That same rain might also affect Main Street Bethelhem, so be sure to check the website or Facebook page sometime Friday afternoon if you're planning to go that night. (I am!)

There's been so much GOOD news in Kingsland lately that I haven't had room for bridge construction photos. The construction is coming along nicely, and you can see it all, in real time, on the website of my internet provider (www.323Internet.com). They put a camera on top of a telephone pole on RR 2900, and you can watch the work as it happens with their bird's-eye view!

Not only has 323 Internet offered that service; they have gone above and beyond the call of duty in my recent computer emergencies. My "Creative Cloud" programs were out of date and malfunctioning badly by last week (that's why last week's pictures looked so fuzzy), and the support guy from Adobe couldn't fix it. He blamed it on my internet provider, but when the man from 323 showed up, he showed me that there was a simple fix — not even related to my internet service!

Now I have "Creative Cloud 2019," and I'm trying to get acquainted with the "improvements." But my computer is working fairly well, and I am very thankful!

As I put the date on the pages of this week's paper, I was reminded of Pearl Harbor (and the patriotism of our "Greatest Generation") and the amazing life of President George H.W. Bush, who joined the Navy just a few months after the attack. I never quite met him, but I have toured the George Bush Library in College Station and listened to his speech (and got some good pictures of him) when they dedicated the new "George Bush wing" at the Museum of the Pacific War in Fredericksburg. I respected him as a VP and president (especially around the time of the war in Kuwait!), but it was that good-humored speech (and the love and respect that he showed toward Barbara) that made me really admire him as a person.

A little closer to home, there is a whole lot going on in Kingsland! Some of it is holiday stuff like the Toy Drive at the Boys & Girls Club this Friday (and the ongoing toy drive by the Kingsland VFD) or the Christmas and New Year's Eve galas at the community center. Some of it is construction that started before the flood, like the new Gatti's Pizza building and the Richardsons' new "Lazy Heron" coffee shop across from H.E.B. (they finally put up a sign, so I know what to call it). A lot of the activity around town is clean-up and repair, the piles of debris are starting to disappear, and homes and offices are being restored. In at least a few instances, the buildings will be better—new when the restoration is finished; Pinnacle I Realty has had an impressive makeover, and the office looks better than ever. Landshutters is just about ready to re-open, and looks great. I couldn't help thinking that (especially after the Edward Jones office has its major remodel completed) Odie Ainsworth would be amazed by what his 1960-vintage building has become.

As usual, I'm sure this isn't all I meant to write. Unfortunately, I can't remember what I forgot. Have a great week, anyway, and thanks for reading the Highland Lakes Weekly!
Charlotte Dilworth, who organizes the “After-Turkey” Turkey Trot at her Kingsland Health & Fitness Center on the day after Thanksgiving each year, presented a check for $800 from the event’s proceeds to volunteers at the Sharing the Harvest Food Pantry last Thursday morning. Sharing the Harvest provides food and clothing to many families in and around Kingsland.

Justice of the Peace Era Marion, who also serves as local coordinator of the Salvation Army, presents a donation to Susan Patten and Pat Muller (of Valentine’s Lakeside) to help with their expenses in feeding and lodging some of the workers at the bridge construction site.

Above: The impressive new home of Catti’s Pizza, located just west of Kingsland’s First Baptist Church, is rapidly taking shape, and should be open for business in the spring. At right: Pinnacle 1 Realty is one of the businesses damaged by the October 16 flood. As the sign indicates, it has re-opened (and the office is nicer than ever). Just down the street, Landmasters is preparing to open in the next few days, and Edward Jones should be done with an extensive remodel by the middle of January.

We support local businesses and hope you will too!

Jeremy Serna’s “Painting With Friends” program attracted a capacity crowd to The Place Downtown in Kingsland last Saturday night. Each of the participants created a personal masterpiece at the event.

Customers and friends joined Chelsea Clendenn-Morrow and Vivian Perry Rickard last Thursday as the two celebrated the 4th Anniversary of their Protea Salon and Spa (106 Cottonwood Drive in Kingsland).

Most of the small-but-enthusiastic crowd posed with singer/songwriters Coley McCabe and Thom Shepherd (at right) during a break in their performance at The Vineyard B&B near Sunrise Beach last Saturday evening. Sunrise Beach residents asked that this picture be published as proof “that there still is life on the south side of the lake.” The lakeside community was hit hard by the recent flood, and residents are eagerly awaiting completion of the new RR 2900 bridge.

Christmas time in Llano
The 1882 McInnis home, now the home of Lutheran pastor Ralph Reitmyer and his wife, Ruth, was perhaps the most photogenic of nine stops on the Llano Woman's Culture Club's “Holiday Home Tour” on Saturday afternoon.

This unique display is one of many at “The Pink Cactus,” on Hwy 29 west in Llano. The fascinating shop was a participant in Llano’s “Sip 'n Stroll/Art Walk” last Saturday afternoon.

Public Works Director Eugene Long supervised coloring contest winner Alexis Englemann as she turned on the lights around the Llano courthouse at dusk last Saturday.
Above: Ballerina Gillian Fletcher led the Wildflower Dance Studio team as they carried a banner advertising their planned presentation of “The Nutcracker” (December 15 and 16) in Llano’s lighted Christmas parade last Saturday evening.
