Llano County Livestock Show!

Excellent participation and tremendous community support made the 2019 Llano County Junior Livestock Show a great success. Held in the relative comfort of Llano’s new John L. Kuykendall Event Center, the three-day event featured at least 165 young livestock raisers, plus artists, crafters and even bakers (at the Art/Craft/Food show on Saturday). You can see more pictures on pages 7-10 in this paper or many more on the “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page. Feel free to borrow or share any you like!

Shows will begin at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturdays, and Sunday matinees will begin at 2:15 p.m.
The Upper Highland Lakes Nature Center will present a "Bats: Curious Critters of the Night" exhibit at Numenius Coffee Roaster in Marble Falls on Saturday morning, February 16.
My older daughter, Abby, was here for a visit last weekend. Not only did she take pictures for me at the stock show in Llano (see page 1), but she took me to the “Painting With Friends” event on Friday night at The Place Downtown in Kingsland (see photo above).

Scatterthought

By JOHN HALLOWELL

The livestock show in Llano was definitely the biggest event in the Highland Lakes area last weekend, although the lakes and the RR 2900 bridge continue to make news. For me, without too many visitors made this week very special.

My older daughter Abby, who had to call me in sick for my December get-together, finally showed up (to “collect her Christmas presents,” she said). Not only did we have a great visit, but she helped out by taking pictures at the stock show while I finished my newspaper deliveries on Friday afternoon. I put one of her pictures on the front page of this week’s paper.

Because of her interest in art (and because of my own curiosity), we participated in Jeremy Serna’s “Painting With Friends” event at The Place Downtown in Kingsland on Friday evening. That was a humbling experience for me, but Abby graciously traded paintings with me, and left her painting of an Indian headdress with me. I’m not sure what she’s going to do with my painting. I sort of hope she’ll just give it a decent burial!

I started putting this paper together as soon as Abby left on Sunday night, because I knew my brother and sister-in-law (Dan and Connie) were headed in this direction on their way from Walla Walla, WA to Florida. They arrived late Tuesday night, and I had a really good visit with them, too.

Assuming that I get this paper done without too many mistakes (it’s early Thursday morning now), this will have been a great week for me!

Commissioner Mike Sandoval (Llano County Precinct #3) tells me that even though there have been some surprises in the bridge construction, work is proceeding on schedule, and TxDOT still hopes to have the bridge completed in April. I was very pleased to see that the first beams were up, on the north end of the bridge, when I took pictures there on Sunday afternoon (see photo on page 4).

Commissioner Sandoval has extended the deadline to RSVP for his Chili Supper and Town Hall meeting next Tuesday evening to Friday at 5 p.m., so early readers (18 or over, please) still have a chance to make reservations (text 325-248-1261).

The LCRA report showed Lake LBJ down almost four feet and Lake Marble Falls down almost seven feet as of Wednesday morning. I took pictures of the top of “the great marble falls” on Wednesday (see one photo on page 12), but I think the view would be much more dramatic if the lake is lowered a full nine feet as originally projected.

Veterns are invited to a “meet and greet” with students participating in the national VFW Auxiliary’s Creative Art Contest, to be held at the Burnet VFW hall (Post 6974, on Hwy 29W) from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. on Monday, January 21. Lunch will be provided, and veterans are urged to share some of their experiences with the youthful artists. Email vfwauhl-6974burne@gmail.com if you can be there!

The Kingsland/Lake LBJ Chamber of Commerce reports a very successful Winter Texan Dinner on January 8, despite some concerns about the effects of October’s flood. Many thanks to volunteers Denny Boland, Hafdis Gentry, Jon and Darlene Zubkus, Susan Patton, Teresa Gray, Lisa Morgan and Rick Sermitshire, Chris Carl and her son, Jason, Pat Mueller, Mike Leamon, and Lisa Morgan; also businesses which donated door prizes: Protea Salon, Showcase Builders, Subway, Cafe Twenty-Three Hundred, Valentine Lakeside, Gray Insurance, and Kingsland Health and Fitness. The Chamber is now looking for door prizes for the next Winter Texan Dinner on February 12. This is a great way to get your business recognized!

Horseshoe Bay accountant Lisa Bargesley, who is now driving the force behind the Kingsland Chamber’s very successful Breakfast Club networking meetings, was the sponsor at the latest meeting on Tuesday morning at The Place Downtown. I made a hurried stop there and took several pictures, but somehow failed to get them copied to my computer before I deleted them from my camera. I had done that on two previous occasions (quite a while ago), but thought I had good precautions in place to make sure it didn’t happen again. Apparently, I was trying to do too many things at once; I hope this mention will help make up for the lack of a picture.
The first beams were installed last week on the north end of the RR 2900 bridge in Kingsland. TxDOT reports that construction is on track to be completed in April, despite some complications.

Movers were relocating the Kingsland Insurance Agency last Friday to the newly-refurbished Central Texas Land Title building. While some work remains on the building's exterior, the inside is better than new! The business will also get a new name; it is now operating as Timmons Insurance Agency. Chuck Lalonde's law office is now located upstairs in the building (on RR 2900 at Cottonwood).

These mischievous neighbors dressed in their best Monday-morning attire to welcome the new Lazy Heron coffee shop to Kingsland. The latest addition to the Kingsland economy seems to be off to a good start since opening on December 29.
Jeremy Serna’s “Painting With Friends” program attracted another good crowd to The Place Downtown in Kingsland last Friday night.

Former NASA engineer Chuck Dieterich presented a program on LED etrobes at a meeting of the Experimental Aircraft Association in Kingsland last Saturday morning.

Long-time fishing guide Fermin Fernandez discussed fishing on Lakes Buchanan and Inks during Tuesday night’s well-attended meeting of the Lake Buchanan Conservation Corporation. The meeting was held at Hill Country Hall, in Buchanan Dam.

August 1972 around Kingsland

By JOHN HALLOWS

A photo in the August 10, 1972 Highlander showed Joe Cox, president of the Kingsland Chamber, presenting a $25 savings bond to Mr. and Mrs. “Dub” Miller, winners of the home decorating contest at that year’s Aquas Boom a month earlier. Stein Lumber won “Best Business Display,” and Lawrence Anmann, from Sherwood Shores, earned a savings bond for suggesting the Aquas Boom theme: “Festival of Freedom.”

The Kingsland Garden Club announced plans for its next meeting (on September 1) and the Fall Flower Show (on October 21). Mrs. Weldon G. Osborn was president of the club in 1972; Mrs. L.W. Klemm and Mrs. Ed West were co-chairs for the flower show. Commander Roy Holtz announced that the Kingsland-American Legion had gained twenty new members in the past month. Myrtle Jenkins and Ola Davidson took First Place in the August 1 session of the Kingsland Duplicate Bridge Club, with 62 points. Lucille Anderson and Luella Havens took Second Place with 58 points. The club met each Tuesday at St. Charles Borromeo Catholic Church.

Brent and Dawn Thayer, Dwight Reagan, Roy Mosely, Fred Brucks and Harvey Raab in front of a new Salvation Army collection booth in the parking lot in front of Mr. Due’s Department Store at the Highland Lakes Shopping Center in Kingsland. An accompanying article reported that it had been set up on July 25, and had been filled to overflowing in just a few days. The donated clothes would be taken to the Salvation Army Central Collection Station in Austin. A separate drive for cash donations netted $1,225; one third of that amount would be used for needs in Kingsland, while most of the cash would go to the state headquarters.

H.H. King announced that his son-in-law, Allan Imhoff of Dallas, would take over management of his King’s Service Station, located across from Stein Lumber on RR 1431. King’s was open from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m., seven days a week; it offered full- or self-service gasoline sales, plus tires, batteries, headlights, oil changes, etc. The Imhoffs, Allan and Frances, had five children.

An article mentioned a visit with local artist Jewell Smith. She had come to Kingsland with an excellent resume, and had opened the Bluebonnet Ceramic Shop about eight years before. Unfortunately for Kingsland, she was in demand as a mural-painter all over the county, and was not able to keep the shop open. At the time of the interview, she had just finished a baptism service (20 feet high and 17 feet wide) at the Assembly of God church in Killearn; her largest paintings were murals for drive-in theaters, measuring “26’ x 48’.

Audrey Heiser’s August 17 “Kingsland Calendar” column listed several community activities. The “Christian Community Activity Group” would meet at Barrow Hall from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., attended to be adjourned by a sack lunch. The Women’s Missionary Study group would meet at 10 a.m. every Thursday at Calvary Hill Church, which also was planning a Revival at 7:30 p.m. on August 23. The American Legion held games at 7:30 p.m. every Thursday and 4:30 p.m. every Sunday; they also planned a dance (featuring an unnamed music group from Burnet) at 8 p.m. on August 25. The Kingsland Garden Club planned to meet at 2 p.m. on Friday, September 1, at the Highland Lakes Recreation Center, and the Kingsland Community Church Women’s Organization Bake Sale was scheduled for the morning of Saturday, September 2 (from 2 in the front of the post office).

The “388,000 pound main steam drum” was lifted into place atop the 15 MW (MM) Generators in the new $40,000,000 LCRA Granite Shoals thermal power plant” in Horsehoe Bay. The first of three units there was expected to begin generating power in 1974.

On the August 31 Highlander announced “Tornado Touches Down Tuesday on Lake LBJ.” The story reported damage to boats and dampness. It also noted the “Addition of Sherwood Shores.” Former publisher Bob Bray, who wrote an occasional front-page column called “Ye Ed for the highlander and an extensive property owner on the lake that bears your name, I am surprised that you have not thrown your influence in support of our suggestion for the construction of a flood-contour dam on the upper Llano River.” After lamening the inaction of current politicians and the Army Corps of Engineers, Mr. Bray continued, “This country needs your decisive leadership in securing a dam on the Llano that will provide Kingsland and hundreds of residents living along Lake LBJ with adequate flood protection."

The column concluded with a note to readers in general: “If you haven’t seen the beautiful fountains at the entrance to Horsehoe Bay, it is worth your time to make the drive out FM 2147. There are clusters of about six, and the jets shooting into the air amid colorful lights really make a spectacular sight.”

Another article on August 31 noted that “Good attendance was reported at the American Legion dance in Kingsland. The next dance will be at 8 p.m. on September 23, with music again by the Carrow Brothers.”
Enthusiastic young livestock raisers showed off the results of a year’s work at the successful Llano County Junior Livestock Show, held at the John L. Kuykendall Event Center just west of Llano last Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Along with the hogs (above) and chickens (below) the Llano County Junior Livestock Show featured a multitude of well-cared-for steers, heifers, goats, lambs, rabbits and turkeys. The premium sale on Saturday evening featured entries from 165 young Llano County residents who are keeping Llano’s agricultural heritage alive.

Above: The top tier of the “great marble falls,” which inspired General Adam R. Johnson’s dream of a major industrial city on the Colorado River, is visible once again during a drawdown of the lake which ordinarily covers it with about six feet of water. The LCRA’s river report indicated that the lake was almost seven feet below normal when this photo was taken on Wednesday.

Cheryl Crabtree and Briley Mitchell (at right) presented “Llano Strong” t-shirts to country music legends T. Graham Brown and Alex Harvey on stage at the Llano Country Opry last Saturday afternoon. The two musicians collaborated on Brown’s #1 hit “Hell and High Water,” the title of which is echoed on the back of the t-shirts.

Above: Editor John Hallowell gave a talk on “Kingsland History” at the Lambda Nu meeting last Wednesday. His book, “Lake LBJ and the Re-Birth of Kingsland” is available online, as is the “Flying Dreams” book by Henry Dainys (left), of the Flying H Ranch just west of Kingsland.

What are your hopes and dreams for 2019?

New Year’s Eve 2019:

How will you look back on this year?

How do you decide if it was a good year?

What do you have to change from 2018 to make that happen?

Join us Sunday mornings at 10:45am.

We’ll look at life - the way it was intended - and the road map to get there.
