Beginnings of the Bridge

A convoy of trucks brought ten 80-foot concrete beams to the RR 2900 bridge in Kingsland last Thursday. When they were put into place, they provided the most visible evidence of bridge-building progress so far. Drilling and other preparatory work continues day and night, and officials from TxDOT and Llano County insist that work the project is still on schedule to be completed in April. For more photos (and regular updates), see the “Highland Lakes Weekly” page on Facebook.

By JOHN HALLOWELL

The new 2900 bridge is finally starting to look like a bridge! I don’t want to do that because I think the work is being neglected or anything; a six-month schedule seems almost lightning-fast when it comes to building a new bridge, but even three months is good enough. I sometimes wish that there was a long time when you’re watching (and taking the long way around) every day. Sometimes feel like a child on a road trip, sitting on a seat and over “Are we there yet?” So last week was exciting.

I don’t know much about bridge construction, and I haven’t learned much from the websites I’ve looked at. I heard that the first “beams” were going to be up last week, so when I saw what I would consider to be the supports for the beams last Wednesday, I thought that must be what I had heard about (so I called them “beams” in the paper). Then, on Thursday, I saw a video on the “HomeSmart” Facebook page about a convoy of trucks hauling 80-foot concrete beams into Kingsland, and realized that I had jumped the gun!

I was still asleep from an all-night deadline day when the convoy arrived, but I got down to the bridge in time to see the last three trucks before their beams were unloaded (see photo on page 5). Thursdays are always tough days for me; when I finally do get out of bed, I have to deliver papers as fast as I can until late in the evening. That means that I can only take a couple of minutes to take pictures at Thursday events (and only if they are easily accessible from my delivery route). Sometimes I can get to events in Kingsland during the late afternoon, to events in Llano in the early evening, or to events in Burnet or Marble Falls late at night—but not much else. When I started this paper, it seemed like nothing much happened on Thursdays anyway, but that has changed; there’s almost always something going on these days, and often I just can’t make it.

I’m quite productive on the weekend, and I almost always have more pictures than I can fit in the paper; it’s just never ALL of the good news from around my wonderful neighborhood. This past Monday, I got so excited about all the work going on in Kingsland that I finally took a picture of the bridge that I had done the clean-up work done by the Burnet High School football team) that I completely forgot about a “meet and greet” at the VFW hall in Burnet, involving area veterans and Burnet High School art students who were participating in the National VFW Auxiliary’s Creative Art Contest. Fortunately, Auxiliary President Kat Carter sent me some pictures (you can see one on page 12).

The Falls on the Colorado Museum, which is worth a visit any time it’s open (Thursday through Saturday, 10-4), will be hosting a special program on Comanche and German Settlers beginning at 1 p.m. on Saturday, February 9. In the meantime, its exhibit on Cynthia Ann and Quanah Parker “A Woman Of Two Worlds and a Man In Two Worlds,” will continue until February 28. Among the other exhibits in the museum are the exceptional “Mormon Mill” and “Rockie” (the locally-uncarved bison skeleton) displays.

The Girl Scout House in Marble Falls, which was severely impacted by the October flood, and has been totally refurbished by community volunteers, will be holding an Open House from 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, February 10. The event will serve two purposes: as a thank you event for the community volunteers, and as a recruiting event for anyone who’s interested in getting involved with the Girl Scouts. The House is located at 401 Pecan Valley Dr., on the south end of Johnson Park.

For all the fans of Tracy Petzco’s Llano Country Opry, he will be hosting the 30th Heart of Texas Country Music Festival from March 12-23 in Brady. The festival will feature fifteen top-quality shows and dances, plus the Darrell McCall and Friends Golf Tournament. Tickets are on sale at thecordilleraust.com or by phoning (325) 397-1895.

Farther down the road (but worth mentioning here) are the Soapbox Classic in Marble Falls (scheduled this year for April 26-28; organizers are seeking entrants, vendors and sponsors. See www.AdultSoapboxDerby.com for details), and Youth Range Day in Kingsland, to be held on April 6 near Malcolm Long’s fishing camp.
The Quilt Show last weekend at the Kingsland Community Center was a big success, drawing good crowds both Friday and Saturday.

Llano County commissioners Mike Sandoval (Pct #3) and Linda Raschke (Pct #2) held a well-attended chili supper and Town Hall meeting at the East Llano County Annex in Buchanan Dam on Tuesday evening.

The little church building at 3928 RR 1431, on the west side of Kingsland, is now open for business as Blondies Barber & Beauty Shop, a new business operated by Valerie Waldon and Patricia Hoffman.
A convoy of trucks arrived in Kingsland hauling 80-foot concrete beams for the new 2900 bridge last Thursday morning.

The beams were quickly put in place in a dramatic show of progress on the eagerly-awaited bridge. TxDOT and Llano County have reported that the project is on schedule to be completed in April.

While the four-foot drawdown of Lake LBJ has complicated construction on the new bridge, it is giving property-owners along the flood-ravaged waterfront an opportunity to do some badly-needed clean-up and repairs.

“A busload of Burnet High School football players arrived in Kingsland Monday morning to help with two big clean-up projects as part of the BCISD’s “Day of Service” to honor Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Half of the team helped clean up sites at Kingsland’s Harris Loop, one of the hardest-hit neighborhoods in the October 16 flood.

The rest of the team worked with a crew from Texas Baptist Men to clean up debris along the lakefront on River Oaks Drive; an effort dubbed “Texas Chainsaw Miracle” by your friendly local editor!

The Highland Lakes Pod of the Chili Appreciation Society International (CAS) donated food from its December 26-31 Cook-Off in Kingsland to construction workers at the 2900 bridge. The good-hearted cooks also donated $1,800 to the American Legion, which hosted the event.

A crowd gathered around pastors Shane and Sandy Wenger on the stage in Elevate Church’s new home for a ribbon-cutting last Friday. The church, which formerly met at Lakeside Pavilion in Marble Falls, has purchased the building at 700 Gateway Parkway and joined the Marble Falls Chamber of Commerce.

The Marble Falls High School Fine Arts Department presented four excellent showings of the popular “Newsies” musical last weekend. The play, based loosely on the real-life newsboy strike against media moguls Joseph Pulitzer and William Randolph Hearst in New York City in 1899, depicts the hard lives of young newspaper-sellers with humor and style; it was performed wonderfully by the actors at MFHS. The photos above and below show some of the scenes from the fast-moving plot.
Dozens (maybe hundreds) of bicycling enthusiasts gathered on the north side of Bertram last Saturday morning for the Tommy Ketterhagen Memorial Road Race, an event sponsored by Brad Houston Law to honor the memory of a young man who was killed when his bicycle was struck by a hit-and-run driver two years ago. Tommy’s father, Tom Ketterhagen, addressed the crowd of bicyclists before the race began.

Part of a long stream of participants in the 80-mile “Men Pro 1/2/3” began their part of the all-day racing event, held on county roads in northeastern Burnet County last Saturday.
