Bluebonnets (and other wildflowers) continue to thrive all around the Highland Lakes, giving visitors some spectacular views as they travel to this weekend’s big Bluebonnet Festival in Burnet. The photo above was taken last Saturday in a Llano County gravel pit, but fields full of wildflowers are visible from all the major highways in the Highland Lakes area. See page 16 for more wildflower photos (or look on Facebook for the “Highland Lakes Weekly” page).

I was at the Youth Range Day in a gravel pit near CR 321 (see page 1), and thought I'd walk a little way down the tracks to get a picture of this famous bridge with its wildflower decor.

Scatterthought

The past few weeks have been quite an adventure. I remember the 22nd of February (just barely), when my first 24-page paper was printed and I was telling people wherever I dropped off copies that "This is the biggest and best issue ever" of the Highland Lakes Weekly. Then the next week (and again the week after) I told them "I think this issue is even better."

John Hallowell

I was working more, making less and getting less sleep. I could live with the idea that the paper took longer to print and put together and that I'd be behind schedule all weekend. The paper was better, and it was exciting.

This was the week that things seemed to have caught up to me a little. The paper did not seem like "the best ever," even before people began pointing out things that I had got wrong or completely forgotten. It was better. I had to go home and "catch up" on an afternoon when I had hoped to be out taking pictures. Now I'm typing this column at 1:55 a.m., working on another pot of coffee and hoping that I'll get the paper done somewhere near my 8 a.m. deadline. I think maybe the Peter Principle has caught up to me.

In case you weren't paying attention back in the '70s, a Canadian educator named Laurence J. Peter published a satirical book based on the theory that people in a career tend to rise to their level of incompetence." I've had several close brushes with the Peter Principle, but now I think I may have finally arrived; the thing that Mr. Peter seemed to have missed is that he thought people would be getting paid MORE on their arrival.

A convoy of trucks brought 80-foot beams to the construction site of the new RM 2900 bridge in Kingsland on Monday.

One by one, the trucks brought their beams down to the lake, where a crane lifted them and placed them on a barge.

Tugboats pushed the barge out to the middle of the lake, where another crane waited to place the beams on the bridge.

Beams were placed in four more sections, extending the new bridge to approximately three quarters of the way across the lake.

The mission of the MIAP is to locate, identify and inter the unclaimed cremated remains of veterans, who deserve to be interred with honor and respect. It is estimated that 1,000 such cremains have been stored unclaimed in Texas (25,000 across the nation). Since 2006, the MIAP has located 622 cremains in Texas; 90 veterans have been identified, and 68 interred. The MIAP would welcome any information that could help identify more veterans.
The sun was shining on Friday afternoon when this photo was taken, but inclement weather prevented volunteers from completing the paint jobs on the static display airplanes in front of the Highland Lakes Air Museum last weekend.

Rain forced the cancellation of last Saturday’s Great Strides Walk for Cystic Fibrosis, but some who showed up anyway participated in a Tree Dedication at Haley Nelson Park in Burnet in memory of a teenager who lost her fight with the terrible disease.

Jane Hallowell gave a talk at Lakeshore Library in Buchanan Dam on her late father, Elliot Hallowell, and his books of poetry. The event was held to mark National Poetry Month in April.

The Mighty Thomas Carnival was just one of many great entertainment options in Llano last weekend. This weekend, the carnival will be in Burnet for the Bluebonnet Festival.

“I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.” (John 14:6).

Kayaking the Colorado

Ethan West (pictured below) is an adventurous young barber from Mason. Having already hiked the entire Appalachian Trail through the eastern U.S., he decided to explore Texas. Without a statewide trail to hike, he decided to follow the Llano and Colorado Rivers to the Gulf of Mexico. He began his trip at the headwaters of the South Llano River last week and arrived in Kingsland on Tuesday. After spending the night with friends in Kingsland, he headed south from Wakepoint early Wednesday morning.

Library. I love talking, of course, but I get less and less coherent when I haven't slept enough. This may not end well!

I have several items that need mentioning here. One is the Youth Garage Sale at Kingsland First Baptist Church this Friday and Saturday (8 a.m. both days). Another is the Book & Bake Sale this Friday (8 to 5:30) and Saturday (8 to noon) at the Lakeside Library, and yet another is the Lake Buchanan Conservation Corp's annual gun raffle, which will be kicked off at the Bluebonnet Festival this weekend (booth W22, in front of the First State Bank of Burnet). Be sure to stop and get a few tickets!

The new KT Waterfront Construction office (just down the hill from the scenic overlook in Kingsland) will be the venue for a Hill Country Builders Association mixer from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. on Tuesday, April 16. And the new apartment complex at Panther Hollow (just south of the Holiday Inn Express in Marble Falls) will hold a Grand Opening from 10:30 to 12:30 on Wednesday, April 17.

I also need to point out that it is NOT the Kingsland Chamber which is planning the big bridge opening celebration on May 30. It is Kingsland Area Boom and the Boat Town Burger Bar. Although the Chamber is planning to do a ribbon-cutting at the event. This week's program makes the bridge look a lot closer to completion, at least to my untrained eyes. I hope it will be open before May 30.

I mentioned the Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) in last week's paper, and got a note from fellow-historian Colleen Kenyon, in Granite Shoals. She wanted me to know that the "Llano Uplift" chapter of the DAR was the result of efforts by three members of the old Kingsland Genealogical Society: Valle Terrell (deceased), Angie Spangenberg, and Mrs. Kenyon herself! I thought that was worth mentioning here as well.

That's more than enough scattered thoughts for one column. Have a great week anyway!

The Resurrection of Jesus has given meaning and hope to millions. He fulfilled centuries of specific prophecies, demonstrated His divine nature throughout His life, gave His life for mankind, then offered the ultimate proof of Who He is - conquering death and leaving an empty tomb behind!

When we celebrate the Resurrection, we acknowledge that there is more to life than day-to-day living. Each one of us has an appointment with Him. It could be much sooner than you realize!

Join us on Sunday, April 21st as we celebrate Him, listen to His words, ponder the mystery and prepare for a future that goes beyond life itself.
