Santa and Mrs. Claus (who look remarkably like Llano residents Emmett McPherson and Cheryl Crabtree) made their grand appearance at the Starry Starry Nights lighting display in Badu Park last Friday night to officially usher in the Christmas season in Llano. Many of the youngsters there were excited to see them; others apparently not so much!

Photos with the Clauses were just one of many attractions at the riverside display; there were several different activities for children, live music, hot chocolate, roasted marshmallows and more. The wonderful display will remain open each evening (weather permitting) through December 31. You can see more “Starry Starry Nights” photos on pages 10 & 11 (and many more on Facebook, at “Highland Lakes Weekly.”)

"Time is a funny thing. It doesn't seem like a long time since I started this paper in 2011, but things that happened last Wednesday are lost in the distant past. The Thanksgiving weekend really threw me off!"

I'm generally on a rigid schedule, with each week's paper starting as soon as the previous issue is completed. I generally put in almost 60 hours between Wednesday morning and Saturday night, so there isn't much "wiggle room" until Sunday. Last week, that schedule was hurried up, then interrupted by a wonderful, relaxed Thanksgiving Day. On Friday, I had to remind myself several times that it wasn't Monday, and by Tuesday, only my "photographic memory" (photographs I had posted on Facebook) saved some of my earlier pictures from total oblivion.

So while this paper will definitely be filled, it may not have everything in it that I had intended. I know that I missed a couple of events on Tuesday (most notably, the Horsehoe Bay "Jingle Mingle" where their Citizen of the Year was named, I'll try to follow up on that next week), and I assume that I left out a couple of events that I attended.

But the big news this week is the Christmas Season is in full swing around the Highland Lakes. This weekend's big events are: Main Street Bethlehem in Burnet, home tours in Llano and Marble Falls and Christmas parades in Kingsland and Llano. Also, Studio 29 will present the ballet Story of the Nutcracker at Burnet High School School on Saturday and Sunday. Then there are lights everywhere, just a drive around the area is an adventure. Burnet has beautiful lights on the square, at Walnut Ridge Park and at 106 Fox Circle in Delaware Springs, where Charles Harner has once again created an amazing light show, set to music, at his home. He's collecting canned goods for LaCare, so stop in at 11:46, then follow the signs to his home. I don't think you'll be disappointed.

Of course, there are always the Walkway of Lights in Marble Falls and the Starry Night's Lighting display in Llano (plus great downtown lighting in both towns). Granite Shoals will turn on its "Christmas by the Highway" display on RR 1431 (in front of Highland Lakes Elementary School) at 6 p.m. this Friday (December 6). And there are countless homes with attractive lights to brighten the evenings all month.

Festivities next weekend are even more impressive. There will be Snow Days in Llano and Burnet, plus Main Street Bethlehem (weekend 2), Christmas on the Square and Christmas at Fort Croghan in Burnet, plus Wildflower Dance Studio's "The Nutcracker" at Llano High School and Harmonic School of Creative Arts' "Gifts of Christmas" at Life Church in Marble Falls.

The Burnet Chamber is looking for volunteers (Adults & students, middle school age & up) for Christmas on the Square (call 512-756-4297 if you can help). And Faith's Door in Llano is holding an online charity auction until December 15 (find it on Facebook).

I wanted to clarify a hurried caption in the November 22 issue: the new granite bench in front of the Kingsland Library was a project of the Kingsland American Legion Auxiliary alone, I apologize for not making that clear when I published the dedication picture.

A $19,982 grant from the Lower Colorado River Authority and Pedernales Electric Cooperative will help the Oskalla Volunteer Fire Department (in eastern Burnet County) construct a new substation.

I was delighted to get a complimentary message on Monday from Tracy Schiemenz, of the Masonic Lodge in Kingsland. He said, "Thank you for your articles on Kingsland in 1969. Tonight was our 50th anniversary celebration for the Kingsland Masonic Lodge & your articles provided some excellent perspective!" That reminded me that I have been meaning to advertise my book, "Lake LBJ and the Re-Birth of Kingsland" as a possible Christmas gift. You can get an autographed copy (to you or for any recipient, I pay shipping) in time for Christmas by sending a $12 check and info to John Hallowell — P.O.Box 911 — Kingsland, TX 78639, before December 17.
Philip Smith, of Loander, brought his “Saint Paul Speaks” program to Packaddle Fellowship in Kingsland last Sunday, giving two dramatic recitations from the apostle Paul’s epistles that morning.

L.E. and Connie Fite, of the Flite-n-Chance Children’s Foundation, have installed a “mailbox” for letters to Santa on the front porch of their Texas Building Center office on RR 1431 in Kingsland. They encourage parents to bring letters from their kids over the next two weeks (with contact info included); they may be able to help some dreams come true this Christmas!

The Gemstones (Rikki Hasou and Tony Asch, of Houston) delighted their audience with live music at a Valentine Lakeside Jam Session in Kingsland last Saturday.
Costumed members and friends of the Kingsland VFD and the Hill Country Auxiliary helped raise funds to provide Christmas gifts for area children in a “Fill the Boot” drive at the corner of 1431 and 2900 last Saturday. The groups are planning a Lighted Christmas Parade in Kingsland at 6 p.m. this Saturday and a Home Decoration contest for the Christmas season (see ads in this paper).

Above: Kingsland merchants held a Small Business Saturday shopping event on the Prosperity Bank parking lot last weekend, and the response was very encouraging. Below: Members of the new Delta Phi sorority sold raffle tickets for a Yet cooler at the Small Business Saturday event in Kingsland. Tickets will be available until Saturday, when a drawing will be held at the “Jingle Mingle” (see ad on page 9). Proceeds go to several charities.

Packsaddle Elementary School got its Christmas season off to a great start on Tuesday morning, decorating a tree in the lobby and welcoming generous donations from two area benefactors. In the photo above, Mary Ann Featherston and Ruby Sanders, of American Legion Auxiliary #437, presented a check for $3,000.00 to Amber Kloepper of Packsaddle Elementary as school administrators Mac Edwards, Ryan Turner and Jamie Payne looked on approvingly. In the photo above, right, school administrators accepted a check for $1,000.00 from Susan Pierce and Amber Sanchez, of BancorpSouth.

The Friends of the Kingsland Library made their monthly meeting into a pizza party at the new Gatti’s restaurant last Tuesday. The active group has set up an “Angel Tree” to provide gifts for children in need, and encourages everyone to check out the Book Nook, where sales of used books help with various library projects.

The Model A Ford pickup is always a key component in the seasonal decoration at Ray and Patricia Hamm’s striking home on Ford Street in Llano, and this Christmas is no different! This picture was taken on Thanksgiving Day.

A still picture does not do justice to the spectacular light show, set to music at Charles Harger’s home near the golf course in Burnet’s Delaware Springs subdivision. He welcomes sight-seers, but asks for donations of canned goods to benefit the LaCara food pantry. Just turn off Hwy 281S at Delaware Springs and follow signs to 108 Fox Circle any evening this month.

This photo, submitted by Martelle Luedcke of Luedcke Photography, shows volunteers decorating the historic Joppa bridge, which was built to cross the north fork of the San Gabriel River in 1907. The lighting of the bridge at Christmas is a recent tradition.
Pastor Tim Johnson, of First Lutheran Church in Burnet, provided music and a message at the “Weekday Cafe” event on Tuesday. The weekly lunch-and-inspiration event is held at the offices of Weekday Ministries, on S. Main in Burnet just off the square.

Above: Stefani Johnson, of “Pride of America” used a booth at the Whipp Farms Gun Show in Burnet last weekend to raise funds for Care Packages, to be sent to service members overseas. Check out her website for info at “carepackagesforheroes.com.”

At left: Burnet’s favorite barber, Thomas Hullum, was at work late Wednesday evening, helping his grandson, Sky Hullum, get ready for Thanksgiving. Mr. Hullum has been “barbering” in Burnet for 74 years!

Members of Kingsland’s American Legion post (Mike Wallace, Mike Firle and Mike Wheeler) built a ramp at the home of a disabled Marine Corps veteran last week to make it easier for him to maneuver his motorized wheelchair. The Marine and his wife were both very pleased with the results.

Taylor Sue Mason, an 8th-grader at Faith Academy, is the VFW’s District 14 winner in the “Patriot’s Pen” essay contest for middle school students. Marble Falls ISD’s band director for grades 6-8, Rachel Faehnie, was also a District 14 winner (“Teacher of the Year”). The two will advance to State competition.

Ramon Aniaga, of Signs Across Texas, is always looking for ways to give back to the Highland Lakes community. Last week, he and co-worker Kevin Holcomb (not pictured) used their bucket truck to secure a flagpole and raise the colors for Navy veteran John Brown at his home in Kingsland.
Above: Bubba Cox and The Can't Hardly Playboys provided dance music at Pardners in Buchanan Dam last Wednesday evening.

At left: Marble Falls native Joelton Mayfield (now of Tennessee) made an appearance at Bill’s Burgers in Marble Falls (at Old Oak Square) last Saturday evening, one of several gigs while he was home for Thanksgiving.

Stacy Barnhill and Kurt Baumer were two of the musicians who took turns on stage at the Bear King Brewery in Marble Falls last Wednesday evening.

Zina Rodenbeck cut the Chamber’s ceremonial ribbon at the Grand Opening of her new “Zina & Co. Real Estate” office, at 614 E. 7th Street in Marble Falls, on Wednesday.

A scene from the dress rehearsal of the Hill Country Community Theatre’s latest production, A Twisted Christmas Carol: a spin-off from the famous Dickens novella in which a comatose Texan BBQ restaurateur sees visions of Christmases past, present and future. The show will be performed twelve times over the next three weekends (see ad on page 21).
The long weekend last week began with a multitude of community and private Thanksgiving celebrations on Thursday. Perhaps the largest Thanksgiving event was the Community Thanksgiving Dinner hosted at the St. James Lutheran Church’s roomy Schorlemmer Hall; you can see part of the crowd on page 19 and in many more pictures on the “Highland Lakes Weekly” Facebook page.

The “After-Turkey” Turkey Trot 5K and Kids 1-Mile was held early Friday morning behind Kingsland Health and Fitness Center, just off RR 1431 in Kingsland. The “walkers” led off at 8 a.m. (top right), followed 15 minutes later by the “runners” (above) on the same 5K route. The photo at left shows the first three finishers: Wesley Bruno (1st) and Davis Comer (2nd), both visiting from Arlington and #1 Female runner, McCall McCall Miller of Kingsland. At right, a colorful “traffic cop” in a turkey costume directed participants at a corner, and participants in the “Kids 1-Mile” got off to a running start at 9 a.m.
Medalists from all three competitions (Walking 5K, Running 5K and Kids 1-Mile) gathered for a group picture after medals were distributed in the front room of Kingsland Health & Fitness Center.

Organizer Charlotte Dilworth recruited a few friends and grandchildren to help draw names for two new bicycles. All finishers in the Kids 1-Mile race were eligible.

The boy’s bike, sponsored by “Bullfrog Cove at Twin Isles” RV Park, was won by Connor Tabb, of Austin.

The girl’s bike, sponsored by Alchemy Art by Amy, was won by LeAnne Millegan, of Kingsland.

Both bikes were presented by Lillian Dilworth.

Proceeds from the annual event benefited the “Sharing the Harvest” food pantry in Kingsland.
